The 2002-03 University of Montana's women's basketball team finished with a 20-10 record, its 21st 20-win season in 23 years and its 18th trip to a postseason national tournament. While it was another successful season, coach Robin Selvig looked back at the season prior to his 2003-04 team beginning practice and, while admitting it was a good season, a great season just eluded his young team's grasp.

The Lady Griz began the season with four straight wins, including home wins over Portland and MSU-Billings and a tournament championship at Maine's Dead River Company Classic with wins over Drake and the Black Bears.

Montana went 2-2 in its next four games going into the Christmas break, but rebounded with two wins over Texas-Pan American and Utah to win the Lady Griz Holiday Classic.

UM entered 2003 with an 8-2 mark, but entered the new year slowly, suffering losses at Western Michigan and Utah, where the Utes got revenge for the Holiday Classic loss by handing the Lady Griz a 77-38 loss, their worst loss since an 89-49 defeat at the hands of Duke on Nov. 26, 1994.

A Crowd Pleaser - Over 3,700 fans per game came out to watch the Lady Griz and their mascot, Monte.

Montana entered Big Sky Conference play with a 9-4 record and promptly beat Idaho State by 32 points, 79-47, in the league opener. But two tight losses followed, 58-53 at home to Weber State and 66-61 at Montana State, the two teams that would go on to share the league title.

In a 1-2 hole early in the conference season, Montana went on a tear, winning nine of its next 10 to get back into the league race. Going into the final game of the regular season for each team, Montana, Montana State and Weber State all sat atop the BSC standings with 10-3 marks. The Lady Griz needed to win at Portland State to pick up its 18th conference championship.

Things looked good early at PSU, where the Lady Griz jumped out to a quick 16-8 lead 10 minutes into the game. But the Vikings closed the half on a 23-5 run to take a 31-21 halftime lead.

PSU extended the lead to 41-25 just four minutes into the second half — a 33-9 run over a 14-minute stretch. Montana answered with its own run, outscoring the Vikings 28-11 over the next 10 minutes to take a 53-52 lead with 5:49 to play.

But the run would not continue. Portland State retook the lead and held the Lady Griz to five points down the stretch, taking a 67-58 win.

Montana finished with a 10-4 league mark, a game behind WSU and MSU.

The No. 3 seed in the Big Sky Conference tournament, UM opened with a 65-58 quarterfinal win over No. 6 seed Northern Arizona. A third matchup against the No. 2 Bobcats followed in the semifinals.

Again the Lady Griz held a second-half lead, 31-24 with 17 minutes remaining in the second half. But Montana State went on a 10-2 run over the next 3:20 to take the lead and never trailed again, winning 70-64.

slipped away. The Lady Griz led the Cowgirls by nine, 54-45 with 10:26 to play in the second half and held the lead until Wyoming regained the advantage, 68-67, with two free throws with 46 seconds to play.

Another free throw put the Cowgirls up 69-67, but Montana's Brooklynn Lorenzen was fouled with 19 seconds to play. She hit both foul shots to send the game to overtime.

Montana led most of the overtime, but Wyoming took its first lead of the extra session, 75-74, with 52 seconds remaining. Montana missed two shots down the stretch and ended its season with a 76-74 overtime loss.

Weber State would get the league's automatic bid to the NCAA tournament with a 62-53 win over MSU in the title game, but Montana was awarded a spot in the WNIT, its 18th national tournament appearance and third WNIT bid.

Montana played well on the road at Wyoming in the WNIT's first round, but another second-half and then overtime lead
